THANK YOU FROM FACETS INC

June 12, 2012 UMECRA Trail

Dear Fellow Horsemen:

We are writing to express our thanks for your recent donation to Friends of the Allegan County Equestrian Trail System (FACETS INC). Generous gifts from donors like you provide the support needed to continue our mission. Your support plays a key role in our success in clearing, marking and maintaining of approximately 50 miles of horse trails in Allegan County.

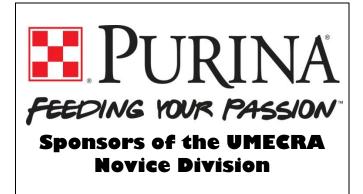

FACETS INC has worked closely with the Allegan County Parks and Recreation Commission and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to make this a reality. FACETS INC is funded by donations and staffed by volunteers.

Your check in the amount of $250.00 will be used expressly to improve trail markings at Silver Creek Park in Allegan, MI.

Thank you for your support. Your donation is tax deductible. Please feel free to contact us with any questions and concerns.

Sincerely, Lenore Ryun, Treasurer

Your Board of Directors at Work!

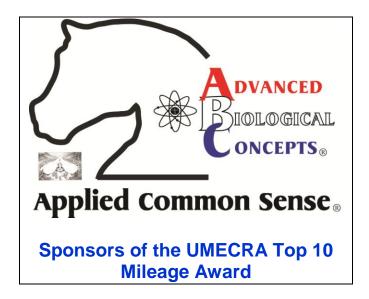

UMECRA received a proposal from Purina regarding continuation of their sponsorship. As in previous years, this would be another 2 yr. sponsorship.

Purina has been the major feed sponsor in 2010 & 2011. The sponsorship is for $750 for the 2 years, which is $375/division divided by 2 years. What Purina receives in return for the sponsorship is an exclusive position on feed, website link & advertisement, and they sponsor the year-end Novice Jackets (that are embroidered w/ a Checkerboard on them). Purina also gets to present the jackets at our year-end banquet plus they try to attend as many endurance rides as possible to pitch product, hand out awards, or just mingle and network.

In addition, Purina is requesting access to the UMECRA member list to enable them to send special offers a few times per year.

Request passed.

GRAZING MANAGEMENT DURING DROUGHT

by: University of Kentucky College of Agriculture June 22 2012, Article # 20205

Much of Kentucky has been behind on rainfall since spring began, but the drought has been exceptional in Western Kentucky with some cities 8 and 9 inches below normal rainfall totals. With some of the state's historically driest months ahead, good pasture management is critical for livestock producers, said forage extension specialists from the University of Kentucky (UK) College of Agriculture.

One of the easiest things producers can do to ensure their animals get the most use out of their forages is to practice rotational grazing. In a rotational grazing system livestock graze in one area for a limited time before being moved to another area. This gives forages time to recover from grazing and ensures the animals use a greater percentage of the available forage.

"During a drought we can't afford to waste pasture, and rotational grazing permits us to use more of what we grow and waste less," said Garry Lacefield, UK forage extension specialist.

Many of Kentucky's pastures are full of cool-season grasses including tall fescue, orchardgrass, and Kentucky bluegrass. These pastures are the least productive during hot, dry weather. If producers install some warm-season perennial grass pastures into their rotational grazing system, it can help ensure their livestock have quality forages during the summer months. While it might be too late to install these grasses this year, producers might want to consider establishing them in the future.

Another option for producers is to incorporate pastures containing alfalfa or alfalfa-grass mixes into their grazing system. Alfalfa tends to have a deep root system, which makes it more drought-tolerant than other cool-season legumes and grasses, and alfalfa will continue to produce while other cool-season grasses go dormant during periods of extreme drought, Lacefield said.

According to Bob Coleman, PhD, PAS, associate director for undergraduate education in equine science and management and extension horse specialist, a warm-season option includes Bermuda grass for pastures in areas of the state where Bermuda grass will grow.

Additionally, Coleman recommends horse owners remove horses from pastures when grass has been grazed to a height of 4 inches. If re-growth doesn't reoccur in 21-28 days, he recommends horse owners designate a dry lot or sacrifice area to feed horses in until the pastures recover to 8 inches or more. While the sacrifice area sacrifice might not recover this growing season, it should be a small area for horse owners to renovate in the fall.

UK extension publications on rotational grazing, summer annuals, and extending the grazing season are available under the publications section on the UK forage website.

My Back Yard

If it's not one thing, it's another - right? This year, unlike the past two, all the rigs were able to get into our campground and out of our campground under their own power. No mud, no slippery hills, no markers destroyed by torrential downpour. In its place, we had heat. HEAT!!!! But like our slogan, we PERSEVERED. Not a great turn out, but I believe those in attendance had a fine time. Some thanks are in order as no ride is a success without lots of blood, sweat and tears (yes literally, tears). The Allen family, Jen, Larry and Kathy, for hosting us on their incredible piece of property. Our veterinary crew of Dr. Wes Elford, Dr. Cindy Schlund, and Dr. Kathi Read. Those who donated to the "the cause" with awards, $$, and food - Ann DeLang, my Auntie Lois, Bureau Valley Veterinary Service, TSC, Nickleson Plumbing and Heating (didn't need their heat, but sure used their portapotties), and the makers of SafeGuard wormer. All those riders who jumped in and helped when it would have been easier to sit in front of a fan, or better yet, go home to air conditioning: Ruth Stewart, Roberta Harms, Deb Searle, Linda Mowrer, Holly Kemmis, Haley Elliott, Taylor Dashiell and probably others whose names I have forgotten. Biggest thanks of all to those of you who came despite the conditions and rode your blessed mounts in the heat. You took great care of your horses (and yourselves) and as a result we had over the whole weekend only 2 pulls (both lameness) and NO METABOLIC PROBLEMS. Good job riders.

Below are the standings for the Triple Crown Award. In order to be eligible, a horse/rider team must complete at least one event in at least 3 of the AHDRA rides. The Triple Crown Award this year is one of Michael Liang's TRAILER EYES. As Jeff from Survivor would say, "Worth playing for?"

UMECRA Shout Outs!

Send your "shout outs" to UMECRAnews@gmail.com and I'll get them in here!

Peggy Pasillas is at the top of my shout-out list. If it weren't for her, I never would have gotten involved in this wonderful addiction. She's coached me in so many ways from electrolytes to tack and we've had innumerable unbelievably wonderful conditioning rides together. She has always allowed me to stay in her camper or LQ which is necessary if you want to participate in those early morning rides. Thank you, Peggy!

Tee Jay Edwards, Walter Frieberg, and Teresa Fett have let me tag along on many LDs helping me learn the pace to keep and to keep me from getting lost. Char Tuhy helped me learn how to sponge off my horse and Barry Saylor has given me lots of good advice. Thank you, Tee Jay, Walter, Teresa, Char, and Barry!

Last, but not least, a big shout-out to my husband, Bob, for supporting me in this sport even though he's never been to a ride himself. Love you, honey!

DA BRIM HELMET VISORS: AN INVENTION BORN OF NECESSITY

by Teresa Bryan

The smell of fresh air, the freedom of being outdoors, and the escape from the daily grind drive my husband and myself to go outside and have fun. We're definitely outdoors people—we love it and we live for it. I'm sure many of you can identify with the feeling of being out and away from it all. We'd have a fantastic time on our weekend adventures only to arrive home exhausted and with sunburns that were not only uncomfortable but also became scary as the thought of the dreaded words "skin cancer" entered our thoughts.

Being active helmet-wearers, we couldn't find an available solution for a visor that gave us cooling shade and actually stayed on our helmet while traveling at speed. After much "googling," we decided to invent our own. The solution was Da Brim, a detachable 360° helmet visor that not only provided us shade but made our helmet look a little more stylish. We now offer visors for multiple outdoor sports, including a few difference styles and colors for equestrians.

Key to the product was finding a contract sewing group that could deliver a high quality product. After much searching both domestically and overseas, we're very proud that we are now able to say Da Brim is "Proudly Made in USA." We've gone the extra step and had our visors rated for ultraviolet protection factor, and they have achieved a UPF50+rating, the highest level possible.

We find that having the shade provided by Da Brim helps us to reduce the sun's glare, increase enjoyment of our activities, and return home without sun-related exhaustion. We're very proud and happy to deliver that comfort factor to fellow outdoor enthusiasts! More information about Da Brim can be found on our website at DaBrim.com, by emailing us at info@DaBrim.com or calling 510-240-9065.

TEN TIPS TO KEEP HORSES COOL

by: University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine
June 29 2012, Article # 20237

The heat can play havoc with your horse's health. It can result in dehydration, lethargy, and general malaise. Severe heat stress can result in diarrhea and even colic. Janet Johnston DVM, Dipl. ACVIM, ACVS, an emergency critical care veterinarian at University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine's New Bolton Center, suggests the following ten tips to keep your horse comfortable and safe in the summer heat.

- 1. Choose your turnout times. If your horse has a stall but is turned out for part of the day, provide turnout during the cooler hours. Overnight is ideal, but if that's not possible, turnout as early as possible during the day.
- 2. Give him shade. If he lives outdoors or must be out during the day, provide relief from the sun. A run-in shed is best. Trees are a source of shade as well, but as the sun moves so will the shade.

- 3. Move that air. Fans are a great way to help keep the air moving in the barn, but use them wisely. Always ensure that your horse can't get a hold of cords and plugs.
- 4. Mist it. If you are lucky enough to have a system to mist your horse, use it. As the moisture is absorbed from your horse's skin, it will take away some of the heat as well. Frequent misting is more effective at cooling a horse than a single dousing with the hose.
- 5. Lead him to water. Make sure your horse has plenty of fresh, cool water. A bucket hanging on a fence will get too warm to be appealing to your horse. Left long enough water will also become stagnant and unhealthy. If you provide clean, cool water and your horse doesn't seem to be drinking, encourage him by providing a salt block.
- 6. Electrolytes. If your horse is sweating a great deal, water laced with electrolytes can help keep his body in balance. Whenever you offer electrolytes, however, be sure to offer fresh water as well. Too many electrolytes and too little water can be harmful.

- 7. Slow down the work. Just because your horse has been working intensely in the heat of the day doesn't mean he continue when the temperature tops 90°F. If you have to work him in the heat, lighten the work or break it up into a couple of short sessions. This is especially important when the humidity is high and contributing to the poor quality of the air he is breathing.
- 8. Stick to a schedule. Within the parameters of keeping him cool, try to stay as close as possible to his normal schedule. Too much change at one time can be an invitation for colic to develop.
- 9. White out! Horses, especially white or light-colored horses, can suffer from sunburn. Even those with white socks, blazes, pink noses, or hairless patches can be prone to sunburn. Using a fly sheet can help, and applying sunblock to small, particularly vulnerable areas can also be effective. Staying out of the sun's harmful rays will, of course, be best. (Also be aware: if a horse has excessive sunburn it could indicate a rare, underlying liver disease.)
- 10. Clipping horses with longer hair coats is important, especially those with Cushing's disease. While some coat can provide protection from the sun and insulation, a thick coat tends to hold heat in and make it difficult for the horse to cool down.

Hot Summer Tip: Pay Attention to Horse's Physical State

by: Oklahoma State University August 11 2010, Article # 16805

Summertime temperatures are running wild across the United States this week, with Oklahoma hitting approximately 105°F, which is leading a number of equine owners to study their horse's heat tolerance with more than a little caution.

"Other than a general lack of enthusiasm and desire to move to shade, a normal well-acclimated horse should be able to handle Oklahoma's heat and humidity with little concern," said Dave Freeman, Oklahoma State University Cooperative Extension equine specialist. "However, the need for owner awareness increases when a horse begins to exercise and engage in more strenuous physical activity."

A horse's body temperature--if it is normally around 101°F--will increase a few degrees with exercise in hot summertime environments. If not exercising, a horse's heart rate should be around 40 beats per minute; respiration rate 12-20 breaths per minute, though this is variable; and body temperature around 101-102°F.

Maximum heart rates during heavy exercise may reach 200 beats per minute or more, and respiration rates can triple or race even higher. Intense levels of work can raise a horse's rectal temperatures to 104°F, plus or minus, which for any substantial length of time will be harmful.

"This means that it is vital that the horse has the ability to decrease excessive body temperature quickly during recovery," Freeman said. "Otherwise, heat stress becomes a big concern."

Under most conditions, equine owners should expect a horse's major physiological measurements--heart rate, body temperature and respiration rate--to decrease dramatically within 5 minutes following heavy or prolonged exercise.

"A horse should reach characteristic 'resting values' within 10-15 minutes at the longest," he said. "If the horse is really 'hot' from exercising, recovery is best done by hand, walking the animal in an area with good air flow and away from direct sunlight."

Freeman explains that cooling the horse's body with water is recommended as long as the equine's heart and respiration rates have dropped to near 'resting value' levels, and possibly even sooner under critical heat stress conditions.

"Humidity and air flow causes evaporation; as a result, your horse may sweat more than you think," Freeman said. "That makes it especially important to pay attention to the animal's physical clues--its respiration rate, heart rate and body temperature--during times when your horse may be at risk from the heat."

If a horse does not appear to be producing sufficient sweat, the owner should contact his or her local veterinarian, who can quantify the animal's sweat rate and take appropriate action.

"Veterinarians have evaluation methods in which drugs are administered that cause a horse to sweat, and might even use absorbent pads to quantify losses," Freeman said.

Anhidrosis, or the inability to sweat, is a problem with a small percentage of horses, but one that should be diagnosed accurately so that an equine owner is able to determine the extent of use to which the horse can be put during periods of excessive summertime temperatures.
